Commencement 2014

PRESIDENT'S WELCOME

MAY 2014

Dear Graduates,

Commencement is a special moment for our entire university community. Today, we acknowledge and pay tribute to each of you and your academic accomplishments. I encourage you to celebrate and take pride both in your unique journey and academic achievement and recognize and appreciate those who made this special moment possible.

The first CSU Dominguez Hills commencement ceremony in 1967 honored four graduates. This year, more than 3,000 graduates from six different colleges join almost 87,000 alumni who are transforming the economic, educational, cultural, and political aspects of our region and beyond. I am confident each of you will make your own mark, forging new and exciting paths filled with the promises and possibilities a CSU Dominguez Hills education and degree provides.

In whatever path you take, whether advancing career aspirations or pursuing new academic goals, I wish each of you continued happiness and success and hope you reflect warmly on your time at CSU Dominguez Hills. I also encourage you to maintain an active connection with your alma mater and reap the benefits of continued engagement with the university while serving as mentors and advocates for new students.

Finally, know that wherever life takes you, you will never be without CSU Dominguez Hills. You forever have our support, you forever have our respect, and you forever are a Toro.

Make us proud.

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY, DOMINGUEZ HILLS OVERVIEW

California State University, Dominguez Hills is located on a portion of the historic Rancho San Pedro, the oldest Spanish land grant in the Los Angeles area. Its 346-acre campus was in the continuous possession of the Dominguez family through seven generations, from its concession to Juan José Dominguez in 1784 to its acquisition by the people of the state of California for the home of the university.

The California State Legislature authorized the establishment of the university in 1960 and the bill became law when Governor Edmund G. (Pat) Brown signed it on April 29, 1960. At that time, the college was to be known as South Bay State College. On January 19, 1962, its first president, Dr. Leo F. Cain, was appointed and the Trustees renamed South Bay State as California State College at Palos Verdes. He proceeded to assemble a planning staff whose priority was the selection of a site for the college from a choice of four proposed sites: Friendship Park, Fort MacArthur, Torrance and Dominguez Hills.

Temporarily located in a California Federal Savings Bank in Rolling Hills Estates in 1965, the university held its first classes in that same fall. The 1965-1966 schedule of classes consisted of one page offering about ten classes per semester. Between 40 and 50 students were taught by 11 faculty members, although each administrator also taught classes.

After the Watts Riots, on October 14, 1965, the board approved purchase of the Dominguez Hills site, but it was not until March 3, 1966, that the Board of Trustees changed the name of the institution to California State College, Dominguez Hills.

In September 1966, CSC Dominguez Hills opened its doors at another temporary location, what was called the Watt campus in honor of Ray A. Watt, president of the Stevenson Village Company, which owned the land and agreed to construct a building for the university's use. The Watt campus was on Victoria Street across the street from the current site of the university.

On June 10, 1967, the college held its first commencement on the Watt campus with four graduates who had entered the bank location as juniors.

After acquiring title to the Rancho land, the college held its official groundbreaking on December 5, 1967. The opening of the permanent campus occurred on October 14, 1968, in a complex still referred to today as the Small College Complex. The remainder of the initial buildings opened on January 2, 1969, followed by the Social and Behavioral Sciences building in fall 1971, and the Educational Resources Center on January 15, 1972. Slightly more than a year later, on April 29, 1973, the college dedicated its new Natural Sciences and Mathematics building. Between 1974 and 75, the Humanities and Fine Arts building, a Student Health Center, and a Theatre Arts Center opened.

In 1976, upon the announcement of President Cain's retirement, a search for a new president culminated in the appointment of Dr. Donald R. Gerth, who addressed the faculty for the first time on September 26 of that same year. On September 12, 1977, the California State University Board of Trustees voted to approve university status to the college, and the institution was renamed "California State University, Dominguez Hills."

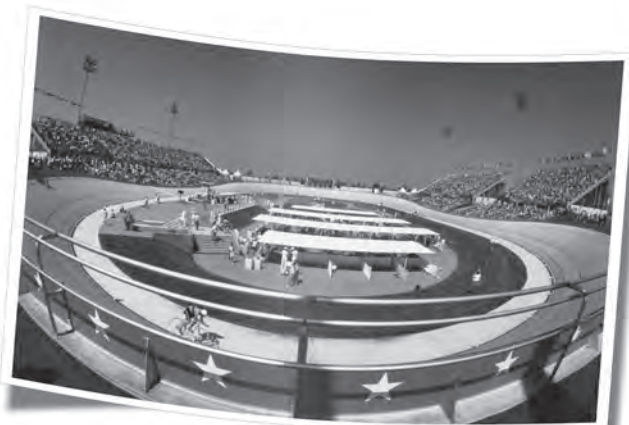

In 1984, the university hosted the cycling portion of the Los Angeles Olympics. A large outdoor velodrome was constructed with the help of the Southland Corporation.

In 2003, the campus became home to the Home Depot Center (now StubHub Center), an athletics and entertainment destination for those interested in soccer, tennis, track and field and cycle racing. The StubHub Center is home to two major league soccer teams, the LA Galaxy and Chivas USA.

On April 29, 2010, the 50th anniversary of the founding of the university, the campus celebrated with a ribbon cutting to open the south wing addition of the Leo F. Cain University Library.

CSU Dominguez Hills has benefited greatly from the service of the presidents and interim presidents who followed Presidents Cain and Gerth: Dr. Richard Butwell (1984-86); Dr. John Brownell (1986-89), acting; Dr. Robert C. Detweiler (1989-98); Dr. Herbert L. Carter (1998-99), interim; Dr. James E. Lyons, Sr. (1999-2007); Dr. Boice Bowman (2007), acting; Dr. Mildred García (2007-2012), and Dr. Willie J. Hagan (2012-present).

CSU Dominguez Hills has continued to broaden its ethnic and geographic base. It has become, as U.S. News & World Report has noted for several years, "one of the most diverse campuses in the West." The university provides a wide range of outstanding academic programs and opportunities to approximately 15,000 students annually, ensuring an exceptional and well-rounded educational experience. Our graduates leave with the skills that enable them to become leaders and productive citizens of a diverse and global society.

MARIE PALLADINI

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE ADMINISTRATION

For 30 years, Marie Palladini was a federal law enforcement officer with the U.S. Department of Fish and Wildlife Service, investigating all kinds of criminal cases involving wildlife, both in the field and as a manager.

It was her dream job and she could have easily retired content with having led a successful career.

Instead, she found herself starting a whole new career, one she said she equally loves—as associate professor of criminal justice administration, and currently acting associate dean of the College of Business Administration and Public Policy.

“I think I’m very blessed because this is the second time in my life where I feel like I have my dream job. I really do. I loved my career as a federal agent, but I really love teaching. I think more than I ever expected.”

On the faculty of CSU Dominguez Hills since 2007, Palladini brings the experiences she had in the federal government and as a lawyer into the undergraduate courses she teaches in criminal justice and for the Master of Public Administration (MPA) online program.

The students undoubtedly get a kick out of hearing about the cases she was involved in as an undercover federal agent—like the time she found elephant ivory tusks smuggled in furniture from Nigeria. For Palladini, that’s part of her strategy to engage them, not just by getting their undivided attention with a harrowing example in the field, but by using that to launch a discussion relevant to the course, and getting them to think critically. She strongly believes that students learn best this way.

“You can remember a concept—the Fourth Amendment says law enforcement officers can’t search somebody’s home without a search warrant. But if you tell him about a case where the government kicked somebody’s door in and didn’t have a warrant and even though the person committed horrible drug crimes, the drugs couldn’t be used against him, then they learn it, because they read the case,” she said, explaining how she has students read Supreme Court opinions and write analytical briefs, something usually done in law school.

Palladini said her out of class involvement with students is equally important to the teaching process. She likes to be there for the students, to answer their questions, encourage them to take internships, and generally guide them along their career path.

“I always try and go the next steps with students,” she said. “I just want them to know that they have a chance and that we care about them and that they can be successful.”

Palladini has a Juris Doctor from Southwestern University School of Law and a bachelor’s degree in criminal justice from Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

TARA VICTOR

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF PSYCHOLOGY

Associate professor of psychology Tara Victor's interest in the brain was first piqued after taking a neuropsychology course as an undergraduate psychology major at Hanover College.

"I began to understand that my interest in the basic brain research could turn into an applied clinical specialty. I knew immediately it was the right career path for me to pursue," said Victor, who earned her bachelor's in psychology from University of Kentucky, and went on to get her master's and doctorate in clinical psychology from Michigan State University.

While her doctoral emphasis was in the neuropsychology of aging, it would be a research area she first worked on as an undergrad—neurocognitive malingering (faking symptoms for the purpose of some external gain)—that would ultimately become a major focus for her, first as a postdoctoral fellow at Harbor-UCLA Medical Center, and continuing at California State University, Dominguez Hills, where she joined the Department of Psychology in 2006.

"Since starting at CSUDH, my research has primarily focused on the detection of feigned cognitive or psychiatric impairment and examining ethno-cultural bias on neuropsychological tests," Victor said. "If we're trying to assess brain injury and disease then we want to make sure that we understand all the different variables that can influence test performance."

Victor's research looks at a number of indicators to help know whether a person is "putting forth their full effort," either from general fatigue to attempts to appear more impaired than they actually are in order to receive damages in the context of civil litigation, as well as test biases due to cultural, language, and early life experiences of the tester.

Victor has been awarded more than $2.5 million in grants for her research (as principal or co-investigator) in not only neuropsychology but also in the area of treating symptoms of post-traumatic stress and chronic pain. She has been invited to lecture at several universities, presented at numerous national and international conferences and been published in professional journals such as Professional Psychology: Research and Practice, Archives of Clinical Neuropsychology and The Clinical Neuropsychologist.

While research is a big part of who she is professionally, Victor said she equally enjoys teaching, how she learns from both but also the sharing of knowledge.

"When the light clicks on for students and you can see that they understand something that they didn't understand before, it's really rewarding and that can happen in the context of both the lab and the classroom."

Victor is a member of several professional organizations, is a licensed and practicing psychologist by the California Board of Psychology, and is board certified in clinical neuropsychology by the American Board of Professional Psychology. She also serves as an assistant clinical professor for the UCLA California Semel Institute and is a consulting psychologist for the "Survivor" reality television series and for CBS Studios.

OUTSTANDING PROFESSOR AWARD

RICHARD MALAMUD

PROFESSOR OF ACCOUNTING, FINANCE, AND LAW

In Hebrew, Malamud translates to English as “teacher,” which makes Richard Malamud, professor of accounting, aptly named.

A certified public accountant and tax lawyer, Malamud first got interested in teaching while working for the national accounting firm, Laventhol & Horwath.

“I taught about six courses as part of their continuing education and loved every minute of teaching. I also wrote one or two of [the courses],” Malamud recalls. “That is where I got the bug to teach.”

When a faculty position in the Department of Accounting and Finance on campus opened up in 1990, Malamud crunched the numbers, so to speak, and took the calculated risk to switch careers.

Malamud approaches his classes—he primarily teaches Income Taxation I and II—like the accountant and lawyer that he is, focusing in on the facts and figures. There is a lot to learn given the length and complexity of the U.S. tax code, and Malamud said that while he avails himself to any student who needs additional clarification, he places the onus on the students to get the most out of his class.

“I believe it’s my job to teach and the students’ job to learn,” he said. “If you take personal responsibility, prepare, come to class, ask questions, and study for the exam, hopefully the classroom time is valuable in making the learning fun and easy.”

Admittedly the subject matter can be dry, which is why Malamud sprinkles his lectures with the occasional attorney, boring accountant or professor joke as well as “war stories from real life tax preparation.”

For him though, “war stories” are more than just jokes; they represent part of his teaching philosophy, which is to be a practitioner of what you teach. Malamud spent more than 10 years as an accountant and attorney, and continues to work more than 100 hours a year during tax season preparing tax returns for a local CPA firm. It keeps him up to date on tax code as well as accounting software and spreadsheet programs, which he can then take back to his classes, giving students tips and tricks they’ll need on the job.

He also keeps current in the field by contributing articles for CPA trade publications. He has written extensively on a broad range of income taxation subjects, from trusts and estates, retirement planning, to the “nanny tax.”

Malamud has served on the Academic Senate as a member and past parliamentarian for more than 20 years, as well as served on various departmental, college and university committees.

“Being part of faculty governance is very rewarding, even though most of the time my views represent the minority view,” he said. “But isn’t that what an educational institution is all about?”

Malamud has a Juris Doctor degree from Loyola, a Master of Laws (LL.M.) in taxation from New York University School of Law, and a bachelor’s degree in economics from University of California, Los Angeles.

OUTSTANDING PROFESSOR AWARD

THOMAS NORMAN

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF MANAGEMENT AND DEPARTMENT OF MARKETING AND MANAGEMENT CHAIR

An example of Thomas Norman's dedication to California State University, Dominguez Hills and its students is where he chose to live—across the street from the campus.

Little did Norman know in 2007 that this university would have such an impact on him. All but dissertation (ABD) in his doctoral program in human resources from the University of Minnesota, he had interviewed for a position in the College of Business Administration and Public Policy (CBAPP) on a whim after receiving a call in his hotel room from then-department chair Dr. Berry while attending the Academy of Management Conference. His post-Ph.D. plan had been to stay in Minnesota or move back to Silicon Valley, where he had worked for several years. But the opportunity at CSU Dominguez Hills connected with him.

“The summer before I joined CSUDH a Google recruiter offered me a position in HR. When I declined, she informed me that in her experience I was the only candidate who turned down

Google to teach at the CSU,” Norman said. “It’s always made me hold my head high that I’m at Dominguez Hills. It felt like a calling to come here and work with students who are very serious about their education; that dedication I feel is like clay to work with.”

And mold it he has. His proudest accomplishments have been in creating opportunities that give his graduates an edge over others in the job market. He established a CBAPP HR advisory board in his first year and became active in the nonprofit Professionals in Human Resources Administration (PHRA), to which he brings students to network with professionals. He also partnered with the Southern California Regional Occupational Center (So Cal ROC) to provide his students with practice as job interviewers, and with the South Bay Entrepreneur Center (SBEC), where many students intern and learn how a business incubator works.

“That’s how I’ve been successful in helping dozens of folks land jobs, because most undergraduates don’t get that level of exposure to industry,” he said, telling of a recent graduate who was selected for an entry-level HR job at SpaceX over a UCLA graduate. “She did it with what I think is the Dominguez Hills secret: hard work.”

Coming from Harvard as an undergraduate, Norman knows what elite schools require of their students and he sets the bar high for his students so they know where they are in the global marketplace. In class, he’s known for pre-tests, weekly quizzes and hard finals, but also for having a sense of humor and being approachable. He gives students real-world assignments that will expand on what they’ve learned, telling them to go evaluate the recruiters at the campus job fair or attend the open forums for campus administrators being recruited.

“I don’t just want to engage people during the time we have in the class, but I ask how do I engage your mind for these 15 weeks we have?” he insists.

Norman sets the bar equally high for himself, which explains why he moved close to campus.

“To do education well is labor intensive,” he said. “To me, this career is such a privilege.”

CAROLE CASTEN

PROFESSOR OF KINESIOLOGY AND RECREATION

If there's a committee at California State University, Dominguez Hills (CSUDH), or within her academic department or professional community, professor of kinesiology and recreation Carole Casten has more than likely been on it, maybe more than once. That happens with 42 years in your profession—35 at CSUDH— but it's also just Casten's way.

"I required myself to do it," Casten said. "I'm self-driven and I really enjoy being involved."

In other words, Casten likes to be active, which is perfect for someone who started out as a physical education and dance teacher and now is an expert in the pedagogy of physical education.

It wasn't a path Casten had sought for herself when she started college at University of California, Los Angeles. She wanted to be a dancer, but taking into consideration her mother's concern that dance was an impractical career choice, Casten chose to double major in dance and elementary education. She eventually transferred to Purdue University and got her bachelor's degree in physical education, health and elementary education to "keep my options open."

"It just turned out to be a true blessing in disguise that I moved into the education focus," said Casten, who would go on to get her master's from Purdue and a doctorate in physical education and dance administration from the University of Southern California.

Casten came to Dominguez Hills in 1979 after teaching in Indiana for five years, and at Redondo Union High School and part-time at El Camino College upon her return to southern California. She joined the then-named physical education department as a lecturer, working her way to full professor. At CSUDH, she found her place.

"I like the environment here, I like the students, the faculty, the administration. I like the culture of Cal State University, Dominguez Hills," she said, describing it as "caring, helpful and meaningful." Through the years, Casten has certainly contributed to that culture.

She has served on the Academic Senate, including as vice chair, the Leaves and Honors Committee, the Technology Advisory Council, college and departmental retention, tenure and promotion, and curriculum committees, and faculty and administrative search committees. For many years she served as adviser to her department's student club, and as adviser to a mentoring program that coined the phrase "Touch the Future, Be a Teacher."

"I've spent many, many, many, many extra hours during the week, at night, weekends, vacations to help our students," Casten said. "I thought it was the right thing to do to help our students as much as I could."

Outside the university, she has held numerous offices in professional organizations, including as the first female president of the Western Society for Kinesiology and Wellness, and been active presenting at conferences. She also serves as the director of physical education and athletics at California Academy of Math and Science, the high school on campus, where she developed the physical education curriculum and earned an award from Arnold Schwarzenegger, then chair of the Governor's Council of Physical Fitness and Sport.

ROBERT BLAIR

CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER, KAISER PERMANENTE SOUTH BAY MEDICAL CENTER

Bob Blair is the Chief Administrative Officer for the South Bay Medical Center where he leads operations and provides strategic oversight for the Southern California Permanente Medical Group (SCPMG) providing care to over 200,000 health plan members and their families in the South Bay.

Blair began his career at Kaiser Permanente as an Administrative Resident at the South Bay Medical Center in 1987. He then moved to Bellflower as Kaiser Foundation Hospitals Finance Director. Blair spent 16 years as an Assistant Medical Group Administrator for the Bellflower (now Downey) and Riverside areas, where he led and improved operational performance and had direct oversight for Primary Care, Specialty, Surgical, Behavioral Health, and Ancillary Support Service Departments in the Hospital. He led operations for both medical centers in service, access, clinical quality, population care management, diversity, clinical community outreach, and member health education.

Prior to his current role, Blair was the Manager of Clinical Operations for the SCPMG Region. In this role, he developed integrated decision support and functionality in SCPMG's electronic systems to support a more efficient operation, which resulted in significant improvement in strategic clinical outcomes throughout Southern California. He initiated work in Southern California, now referred to nationally as Proactive Encounter and Back Office Support, which has been implemented throughout Kaiser Southern California and shared nationally across the Kaiser Permanente Program. In addition to quality outcome improvements, results include improved proactive support to patients and physicians in primary and specialty care. Blair provided leadership in Southern California for SCPMG's readiness/or Disaster Preparedness and initiated a number of efforts aimed at improving response capability in the event of a disaster.

Blair received his bachelor's degree in medical technology, with a minor in chemistry from the University of Utah. He earned his master's degree in health services management from the University of California, Los Angeles. Blair speaks fluent Spanish and is an Eagle Scout. He is active in the community and academia, and has served in and on numerous community and professional boards and organizations.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

DAN BECKERMAN

PRESIDENT AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER, AEG

Dan Beckerman serves as President and Chief Executive Officer for AEG, one of the world's leading presenters of sports and entertainment programming.

In addition to oversight of key AEG divisions such as AEG Facilities, AEG Live, AEG Sports, AEG Global Partnerships, AEG Europe, AEG China and AEG Digital (including the AXS platform), Beckerman, who reports directly to AEG Founder and Chairman Philip Anschutz, oversees long range planning, acquisitions, financial oversight and corporate governance while serving on the six member committee that constitutes AEG's Office of the Chairman.

Beckerman most recently served as Chief Operating Officer and Chief Financial Officer for AEG. In this capacity, his responsibilities include overseeing the day-to-day operations for AEG and fiscal planning for its subsidiaries including STAPLES Center, the Los Angeles Kings (where he will now serve as an Alternate Governor), both of the company's MLS franchises (where he will continue to serve as a member of the league's Board of Governors), two minor league hockey franchises, international holdings and AEG Live, the firm's "live" entertainment division. He was also responsible for the financial oversight, long range planning and debt financing for AEG's development projects throughout the world, including The O2 arena and sports & entertainment district (London), The O2 World arena (Berlin), Sprint Center (Kansas City), Nokia Theatre L.A. LIVE and L.A. LIVE (a $3 billion downtown Los Angeles sports & entertainment district) among others.

Since joining the organization in August 1997 as CFO of the Los Angeles Kings, Beckerman has played a key role in the investment of over $5 billion dollars to develop facilities such as STAPLES Center, LA LIVE, The O2 in London, O2 World in Berlin, the Marriott/Ritz-Carlton hotels, The StubHub Center and BBVA Compass stadium; the operations of over one dozen sports franchises worldwide; and the creation of AEG Live, the country's second largest live entertainment promotion entity. In each case, he was responsible for financial planning, budgeting, financial reporting and overall analysis for all matters pertaining to each division or company's business plan.

Prior to joining AEG, Beckerman served as Vice President, Finance for the Los Angeles Clippers for two seasons where he was responsible for all financial matters. Previously, he worked as a senior accountant at Arthur Andersen in Los Angeles where he specialized in corporate taxation.

Beckerman received his MBA in finance from the Anderson School at UCLA. In 1992, he graduated with honors from UCLA with a bachelor's degree in economics.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

GERALDINE KNATZ, PH.D.

PROFESSOR OF PRACTICE, UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, PORT OF LOS ANGELES, RET.

Geraldine Knatz, Ph.D., served as the Executive Director of the Port of Los Angeles for the past eight years, retiring February 1, 2014. While she was CEO of North America's largest container port, she focused on setting the port's strategic direction to grow port business while addressing increased competition due to industry consolidation and shifts in world trade patterns. She was instrumental in creating and implementing an aggressive Clear Air Plan that cleared the way for major new developments at the West Coast's largest international trade hub that had international ramifications as ports worldwide sought to replicate it.

Prior to her appointment as the Los Angeles Port CEO, she was Managing Director of the Port of Long Beach, with her combined experience at both ports totaling 37 years. Knatz is a former Chairman of the American Association of Port Authorities and Immediate Past-President of the International Association of Port Authorities. She remains active in global port associations and in civic affairs.

She is a Professor of Practice at the University of Southern California with a joint appointment in the School of Engineering and School of Public Policy, where she teaches courses in environmental engineering and seaport policy and management. She has been appointed by Governor Schwarzenegger and reappointed by Governor Brown to the California Ocean Protection Council. She is also a Director of Bank of the West.

Dr. Knatz earned two degrees from the University of Southern California: a doctorate in biological science and a Master of Science in environmental engineering. She earned a B.S. in zoology from Rutgers University. She was also awarded an honorary doctorate from Maine Maritime Academy.

THE HONORABLE YVONNE BRATHWAITE BURKE

LOS ANGELES COUNTY SUPERVISOR, SECOND DISTRICT, RET.

Yvonne B. Burke, served four terms on the Los Angeles County Board Supervisors and Los Angeles Metro Board of Directors, serving as Chair of the Board of Metro in 2005. She was appointed by Speaker Nancy Pelosi to the six-member Committee on Congressional Ethics in July 2008. In 2012 President Obama appointed her to the Board of the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (AMTRAK) and she was confirmed by the Senate in 2013. She also serves on the Board of Directors of California Transportation Commission, LA 84, and Century Housing.

She is a Mediator and Arbitrator with the Alternative Resolution Center (ARC), American Arbitration Association (AAA), and the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA).

As a product of the Los Angeles Unified School District, Burke attended Manual Arts High School, where she developed her interest in public speaking by joining the oratory society and participating in citywide competitions. Her numerous extracurricular activities helped to earn her scholarships from the University of California, Berkeley, and she received a B.A. degree from the University of California, Los Angeles.

She received her J.D. from the University of Southern California, School of Law in 1956. During this era, many private law firms showed no interest in hiring women. She worked as a Deputy Corporation Commissioner and later had her own law firm.

She became the first African-American woman elected to the U.S. Congress from California in 1972, representing California's 37th District. She was selected to serve as vice chair of the 1972 Democratic National Convention in Miami and later on the House Select Committee on Assassinations. In 1973, she became the first member of Congress to give birth while in office. She did not seek re-election to Congress in 1978, instead she ran for Attorney General of California.

She became a public finance and real estate attorney with various firms and from 1987 to 1993 was a partner in the firm of Jones Day, Reavis and Pogue.

In 1984, she was selected to serve as vice chairman of the U.S. Olympics Organizing Committee, and served as Chair of the Los Angeles Branch of the Federal Reserve Board and a Regent of the University of California before becoming the first African-American elected to the L.A. County Board of Supervisors in 1992. She served on the boards of the Ford Foundation and Educational Testing Service. She has honorary doctorate degrees from Pepperdine University and Virginia State University.

As a Los Angeles County Supervisor, she represented nearly 2.5 million residents in the nation's largest county. Her efforts focused on improving the lives of children, economic development, and improving transportation. Her unused campaign funds were donated to the Burke Education and Policy Foundation that has provided over $300,000 in scholarships for Los Angeles college students.

JAMIENNE STUDLEY

ACTING UNDER SECRETARY, U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Jamienne Studley is a leader in higher education policy, education equity, and law in the public interest, respected for her wide ranging experience and commitment to public engagement and opportunity. Studley has been the Deputy Under Secretary of Education since September 26, 2013, and has served as the Acting Under Secretary of Education since December 28, 2013.

Studley served as deputy and acting general counsel of the Department in the Clinton Administration from 1993-99. During that time, she had responsibility for implementing the negotiated rulemaking process, led the negotiated rulemaking on financial responsibility, and served on the White House Regulatory Reinvention Group. In March 2010, Secretary Arne Duncan appointed her to the National Advisory Committee on Institutional Quality and Integrity (NACIQI), which she chaired in 2012-13.

Earlier Studley was President and CEO of Public Advocates Inc., a San Francisco based civil rights advocacy group that works with communities of color and poor people using public policy, litigation, legislative, grass roots coalition and media strategies to eradicate the systemic causes and effects of poverty and discrimination; President of Skidmore College where she convened national discussion of education opportunity and preserving merit student aid; Associate Dean and Lecturer in Law at Yale Law School; Executive Director of the National Association for Law Placement; and special assistant to HEW Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris in the Carter Administration.

Studley has served as board member and treasurer of the American Association of Colleges and Universities; vice chair of The Annapolis Group; on the policy committees of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, Campus Compact and the New York State Council of Independent Colleges and Universities, and as member and chair of the San Francisco Ethics Commission.

Studley grew up in Woodridge, NY (Sullivan County) and attended Fallsburgh Central Schools. She earned her Bachelor's degree magna cum laude from Barnard College and her Juris Doctor from Harvard Law School. She has been recognized with the Distinguished Alumna Award from Barnard College (2012) and as a Champion for College Opportunity from the Campaign for College Opportunity.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The tradition of wearing academic gowns, mortarboard caps, tassels and hoods and the carrying of the University Mace originated in Europe during the middle ages and has been an integral feature of American academic tradition since the end of the nineteenth century. The gown is held to be an adaptation of the robe of the friar or priest; the hood, the monk's cowl; and the mortarboard cap recalls the skull cap.

For each of the degree levels, bachelor's, master's and doctoral, the gown sleeves indicate the degree held by the wearer. The bachelor's gown is a yoked, closed-front garment with long, pointed sleeves. The master's can be worn open or closed and has long sleeves, usually closed but slit above the elbow. The doctoral gown has full, bell-shaped sleeves and is trimmed with velvet panels down the front and has velvet bars on each sleeve. The color of the panels and bars is often varied to indicate the academic discipline in which the doctoral degree was earned. The length and shape of the hood also indicate the highest degree earned by the wearer. The color of the velvet border on any hood indicates the wearer's field of study.

Color is an important element of all academic ceremonies. In academics, the colors used to symbolize degrees earned and areas of study are referred to as "faculty colors." They are displayed on doctor's gowns, edgings of hoods, and tassels on caps. The official faculty colors are:

Agriculture – Maize	Music – Pink
Arts and Letters – White	Nursing – Apricot
Business, Accountancy, Commerce – Drab	Oratory (Speech) – Silver Gray
Dentistry – Lilac	Pharmacy – Olive Green
Economics – Copper	Philosophy – Dark Blue
Education – Light Blue	Physical Education – Sage Green
Engineering – Orange	Public Administration – Peacock Blue
Fine Arts – Brown	Public Health – Salmon Pink
Forestry – Russet	Science – Golden Yellow
Journalism – Crimson	Social Work – Citron
Law – Purple	Theology – Scarlet
Library Science – Lemon Yellow	Veterinary Science – Gray
Medicine – Green

SYMBOLS OF OFFICE

THE MACE

The University Mace is a symbol of the legal and chartered authority of the president of the University. When the mace is present, the authority of the University is present. Carrying the University Mace is an immense honor reserved for a highly distinguished faculty member.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CHAIN

The University Seal forms the centerpiece of the ceremonial chain worn by the president of the University. Nine gold medallions, each inscribed with the name and years of tenure, represent a prior president of the University and form a chain symbolizing the continuity of University traditions. A crest inscribed with the name of the current president of the University sits at the base of the chain, linking the chain of medallions to the University Seal. The Presidential Chain was first presented at the 1999 University commencement ceremony to CSU Dominguez Hills President, Herbert L. Carter.
