Our University, with its commitment to safety and security in the workplace, has provided life-safety systems which meet or exceed today's stringent codes. Effective emergency response requires good planning to complement a well equipped facility and well trained evacuation personnel. The personal safety of each CSUDH employee depends largely upon how well individuals react to and are personally prepared to deal with these emergencies.

These guidelines provide reference information and a checklist of procedures on how:

- to prepare for an emergency incident
- to report an emergency
- to know what to do in the event of an emergency
- to obtain assistance in an emergency

Review these guidelines before an emergency occurs and consult evacuation personnel for dealing with emergencies and natural disasters.

The information contained in these guides are certainly not all you need to know, but it does cover most of the actions one should take during emergencies.

Individuals must remain focused and use sound judgment when specific instructions are not available.
