Bachelor of Arts in Sociology

Career Options

The Sociology Department's programs are designed to prepare students for graduate study in sociology and for professional positions and careers in a variety of fields in federal, state, and local agencies as well as for jobs in private business and non-profit institutions and applied research. Studies in sociology provide good preparation for careers in social work, law, probation, and criminology, as well as in community organizing, labor unions, and public service jobs. Students completing a master's degree in sociology can teach at a community college and work toward a PhD. A degree in sociology also complements technical and administrative programs by broadening students' understanding of social organizations, social inequalities, social structures, global and local processes, and human behavior. Contact the department office to for a list of faculty advisors to help you with your career choices and planning.
