

CSUDH Sustainability Star Program

What is a Sustainability Star?

They are a CSUDH faculty or staff member who expands sustainability knowledge by:

- Collaborating with the Office of Sustainability to execute projects and achieve CSUDH's sustainability objectives
- Ensuring sustainable practices are integrated into daily operations on campus
- Sharing sustainability-related knowledge with colleagues

Why be a Sustainability Star?

- You will be the first to receive updates on sustainability-related funding, projects, and programs
- Contribute to your department's progress toward CSUDH's sustainability goals
- Earn recognition, awards, and prizes
- Join a lively and engaged group within the CSUDH community
- Make a meaningful difference

How can you become a Sustainability Star?

It's easy—all you need to do is attend the four Zoom training sessions on the sustainability-related topics below that will be happening throughout the month of February.

Thursdays 12pm - 1pm

Week 1: Zero Waste - 2/8

Week 2: Consumerism - 2/15

Week 3: Conservation - 2/22

Week 4: Small Scale Farming - 2/29

(Optional in-person attendance at the Campus Urban Farm.)

Workshops will be recorded for participants unavailable to attend any of the webinars.

Click the link or scan the QR code to register before February 1st and learn more

<https://forms.office.com/r/psttecLd4k>

